By Natalie Hays Hammond

(A tale of an unfriendly Giant, and the evils of idleness.)

Written Especially for the CAPE ANN SHORE

Long ago, in the Ages of the Gods, there lived a certain youth named Lengarlon. And if we heed the songs of the ancient bards, there never was one who could excel him in all the accomplishments of his day. None, t'was said, could hunt the Qualler bird with more skill, or drive from his lair the Mighty Koulatch, Bane of Mankind. So, since he is indeed superior and above all men, we have chosen him as the hero of our tale.

Not far from the home of Lengarlon, in the bounteous and luxuriant land of the Mharas, there was a beautiful city named Ohle. And in a cave overlooking that city, lived a Giant of very good repute. (Ah, of most excellent reputation, since his only vice was to string beads.)

Each year about the time when the Ohles used to give their "Spring Festivals," and change their fur-lined coats for "Matthews Cotton Mixture Summerweight Underwear," this giant sallied forth from his cave, with a huge needle in one hand, and in the other a chain,—for he was in search of beads. In vain had he experimented with barrels, useless had it been for him to thread kegs, they were altogether impractible for every day wear. But finally, after much thought he decided—that the best beads were human skulls. For, being both lighter and tougher than barrels, they afforded a more comfortable ornament for his neck.

Unfortunately the store-houses of Ohle could not supply his need. (The Ohles being a superstitious, life-loving people.) It was discouraging!!

Slowly his mind discovered a plan which was commendable, in-so-far as it was original. Originality is much admired by the Giant Race.

Since every fortnight he was in the habit of demanding a certain number of skulls from the Ohles, he well knew that their supply was not inexhaustible. He knew that his chain must remain unfinished, or some method of attack devised. And this was it:—

He would force the superstitious Ohles, into War, with their neighbors, the Ghapps. For many years had the two peoples felt a burning jealousy and hatred for each other. The Ghapps openly showed a distrust for the Ohles, and the Ohles harbored a grudge against the belligerent Ghapps. In the course of time, War was inevitable.

So, one peaceful summer night, when a ship of the Ghapps rode confidingly at anchor in the harbor of the City of Ohle, and while that city slept, he stole down from his cave, smashed the boats, and flung the bodies of the innocent crew on the seabeach to rot.—Naturally, the Ohles were blamed for the deed, and the angry Ghapps demanded an explanation. The Ohles not being able to give satisfactory proof of their innocence, were condemned, and the declaration of War between the two countries was heralded throughout the Land of the Mharas.

And so one early morning in mid-summer, as the sun sent its long golden shafts over the marble walls surrounding the beautiful City of Ohle, a row of gaily painted, ornamented galleons, entered the harbor. At this sign, the Palace Chimes rang madly, and the astonished Ohles, congregated on the battlements to watch the conflict.

The Giant peering over the chain of blue mountains, overlooking the City, laughed gleefully at the success of his strategy.

The battle raged. Ghapp and Ohle littered the scen of conflict till, the last survivors of the enemy ranks, returned disgustedly to their galleons, and sailed away.

Then, with infinite quiet, the Giant stirred behind the chain of mountains, and his mind delighted in the thought of his booty. And our hero Lengarlon?—He has been active, fighting in the midst of the battle. Lengarlon—the Koulatch Hunter and captor of the Qualler Bird—vowed that he would avenge the death of his friends.—So, hiding amid the ruins on the battlefield, he awaited his chance.

Merrily came the Giant, wearing his holiday attire:—his necklace of barrels dyed in the blood of Sea Monsters,—and a broad grin. But, as he stooped to gather an armful of skulls, Lengarlon crept into one of these barrels, and there he lay concealed, the Giant unconscious of his extra weight.

THE COMMUNITY DRAMATIC SCHOOL

Interest in things dramatic stimulated by the success of the PLAYHOUSE ON THE MOORS—has found new expression in the COMMUNITY DRAMATIC SCHOOL under the able direction of MISS FLORENCE CUNNINGHAM. The following description of its aims and qualities is written for THE CAPE ANN SHORE by a young student of the drama.

On entering the Community Dramatic School, one ceases to wonder at its unexpectedly successful beginnings.. The studios (class room is far too pendantic a word for so delightful a place) rise straight from the water in the Harbor at Rocky Neck. They are free and open, with an air of joyous craftsmanship—a place in which to work gladly and accomplish great things.

So successful is this infant school that several new courses have been added to the announced curriculum. There will be, for instance, classes in French by Madame Cecile Talma. Very few of us have had the good fortune to be started as Madame Talma starts her Saturday little tots class—with old French songs and games. She has another class for beginners, carried on in lively conversation. And finally there is an advanced class in French, or acting, elsewhere in the buildtion.

The school has been most fortunate in getting Mrs. Evans, the principal of the Boston School of Public Speaking, to teach classes in public speaking. She also has a mother's class in child training, while the children are taking Dalcroze, French, or acting elsewhere in the building. Mrs. Evans puts so much of herself into her teaching that it is an inspiring thing to be under her; an experience never to be regretted or forgotten.

The Dalcroze Eurythmics, by the way, is to teach co-ordination and grace—a cooperation of the limbs and an ease of motion. The classes come every morning under the direction of a teacher from the Dalcroze School in New York, which is authorized by M Dalcroze, the founder of the "Institut Dalcroze" of Geneva.

Miss Esther Shultz, of the Boston Opera Singers has classes for the singing or the speaking voice. This is not elocution, but a training in the proper placing and pleasant use of the voice.

Miss Virginia Smith, whose charming and original dancing is already well known on the North Shore, has consented to take a class in ballroom dancing on Friday and Saturday evening. On the same days she also has children's classes,

IN THE INTEREST OF CAPE ANN

THE OBLIGATION TO THE HOTEL OWNER

Does this city realize its obligation to the summer hotel interest? We doubt it!

Here is a business in which large sums are invested, the interest on which must be realized within a season of six weeks. Bad weather or adverse circumstances may ruin a year's work.

The guests, attracted from all over the country to the hotel, eventually, many of them, become permanent summer home-owners. All, hotel sojourner and cottager alike, become most lucrative patrons of business houses and add materially to valuation keeping down the tax rate and enabling civic improvements that otherwise could not be had.

All this can be directly traced to the hotel men who first brought these people here.

Fair play is bonnie play! What is the community doing to reciprocate? The powers that tax should bear these facts in mind when making the rounds.

COL. PRENTICE WINS

The Land Court has decided that there is no public roadway skirting the "back shore" of Eastern Point, from Brace's Cove to Mother Ann, but that the city has an easement across the land of Col. Prentice to lay water pipes if it so elects.

Col. Prentice desires to build a residence on the site and naturally does not want to go ahead with the possibility of some officials in the future insisting on digging over his lawn or under his house.

In view of the rather slender right which is given the City, it might well be good judgment to release to Col. Prentice the rather dubious privilege of laying a water main and give the colonel a free hand to go ahead and build without any restriction.

The real point at issue was whether a public road existed in this locality. As the Land Court has decided that such is not the case, nothing will be lost by releasing a privilege which is of no practical value to the city.

TROLLEYLESS TOWN

The trustees of the street railway company, June 20, shut down its service after the people had unanimously refused to assume a part of the deficit of the running, including an item of $7000 monthly for interest due on bonds. Pay up or we shut down was the edict of the trustees!

So the Jitneys were called into the breach by the sturdy citizenry and are proving a fairly good substitute.

The universality of the auto places the majority of the summer colony beyond the caprice of the tram. Indeed, many car owners rather welcome the absence of the trolley in Main street as it practically doubles the fairway and relieves a congestion problem which had become serious. Mayhap this season's experience may demonstrate that the trolley with its archaic overhead is permanently in the discard of the economic scheme of things

Meanwhile the fellow who owns no car and misses his jitney, will he, nil he, must walk.

LOOKOUT HILL

John Hays Hammond and Family Return For the Season

Scores of friends and well wishers, welcomed Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond and family on their return to Lookout Hill this season. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond spent the winter in Washington, where they have a winter home. They were in attendance at the Republican convention where Mr. Hammond was an important factor standing high as he does as one of the "elder statesmen" in the inner councils of the party.

On their way home they took in the Yale commencement, as their youngest son, Richard Pindell Hammond received his degree this year.

"Dicky" Hammond was an ensign in the navy during the World War, and won his commission from a "gob's rating.

John Hays Hammond, Jr., the wizard wireless inventor has remained at work in his Laboratory all winter, perfecting his inventions.

TO MY LADY IN SEARCH OF THE DISTINCTIVE

A SHORT SMOOTH MOTOR TRIP TO THE SHOPS OF MAGNOLIA

The season of 1920 is now in full swing at Magnolia.

The cottages are well rented and the hotels are booked well into the Autumn,

The first social event of the season and one that is anticipated by many along the shore is that of the wedding of Miss Isabella Wadsworth, daughter of Reverend and Mrs. Charles Wadsworth, Jr., of Philadelphia, and John Charmion Zinsser of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, at the Union chapel, Saturday afternoon, July 10th at five o'clock.

Miss Wadsworth will have as her matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Wadsworth, 3rd, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, her sister-in-law, whose marriage occurred a few years ago.

The Misses Ellen and Peggy Zinsser, sisters of the groom, will act as maids of honor, while the bridesmaids will include Miss Ailsa MacColl and Miss Dorothy Grammar of Philadelphia.

Mr. Frederick G. Zinsser will act as best man, and the ushers will be, William and Rudolph Zinsser of New York City, cousins of the groom, Dr. William B. Breed of Boston, Lewis Douglas of Arizona, and Chauncy C. Loomis of Texas.

Rev. Dr. Wadsworth will officiate at the ceremony of his daughter and will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. Walter S. Eaton, pastor of the Congregational church.

Miss Phyllis Allyn, grand-daughter of the John Allyn's of Magnolia avenue, who frequently spends the summers with her grandparents, will start for California in the near future, where she will pass the summer at Lake Tahoe, the guest of a classmate.

The Misses Dakin have returned from a motor trip to Northampton, where they attended their respective class reunions at Smith College.

The John Chess Elsworths of South Bend, Indianna, have opened their estate "Wayside" on Summer street for the season. Teddy Elsworth, the young son of the family has had as his guest his cousin, the son of the Oliver Harrimans of New York.

Miss Emily Gray of Cambridge, for many years a guest at Magnolia, will arrive the first of the week for the season where she will have apartments at Hotel Aborn.

The official opening of the North Shore Swimming Pool on July 5th was enjoyed by the many members of the club. A concert in the morning followed by a buffet luncheon with a tea dance in the afternoon were features of the day.

The club house which has been freshly decorated looks doubly attractive, the broad verandas, with palms and flowering plants, make a most inviting retreat.

Among those present were the E. Prescott Rowes, the E. C. Richardsons, H. H. Stevens and family, the W. H. Coolidges, Samuel S. Stevens, John R. Allyns, Otis Weld Richardsons, Dr. Mary D. Dakin and family, C. C. Converse, the James Greens of Washington, the Charles Penhallows of Jamaica Plain, and many others from the summer colony.

Mrs. Amos Upton who has been spending some weeks at the Perkins cottage, left early in the week for Pittsfield, where she will visit friends prior to going to Cape Cod where she will spend the summer.

The death of Mr. Upton at Saratoga Springs during the past winter, came as a great shock to his many friends. Mr. Upton ,the first owner and proprietor of the Oceanside Hotel had much to do with the success of Magnolia as a summer resort and had scores of acquaintances and countless friends among the summer colony and former guests of the hotel.

Mr. Upton was a philanthopist, and both the Women's Club, Men's Club and Congregational Church at Magnolia were left many thousand dollars by his will, recently probated in Boston.

Mrs. J. Harrington Walker and daughter Betty, of Detroit, arrived at "Stoneledge" the first of the month. Owing to the death of Mr. Walker during the past winter, the family will do little entertaining this summer.

Mrs. J. Wingate Thornton and family of Lexington, are at "New House" off Magnolia avenue, for the summer.

H. H. Stevens and family of Brookline, are old cottagers returning for another season to their Summer street home.

Charles S. Penhallow and family of Jamaica Plain have arrived at Penhallow cottage, Magnolia avenue.

Mrs. J. Theodore Heard of Boston, is occupying her cottage on Norman's Woe road.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoyle of Wellesley Hills, and family are occupying their bungalow on Flume road.

Miss Eleanor H. Jones is occupying "Highfields," her home on Norman avenue, as usual this season.

Mr. A. C. Farr of New York City, has taken the J. H. Wilkinson gray bungalow on Magnolia avenue for the season.

Rev. C. G. F. Bratenohl of Washington and family, are domiciled in the Ayers cottage, Lexington avenue, for the summer months.

Arthur C. Dorrance of New York, will be in the Wilkinson brown bungalow again this season.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Converse of Beacon street, Boston, opened their home on the Shore road last week.

The E. B. Richardsons of Boston have arrived at their home on Norman avenue for the summer months.

As everyone knows, the vulnerable spot of a Giant is his neck. Give him a slight cut with a broad sword, and he dies immediately.—This, Lengarlon knew, also.

So as the Giant entered his cave, our Hero crawled out of the barrel and struck!

Oh Foolish Giant, as you strung others, so were you strung yourself!!

EDITOR'S NOTE

THE CAPE ANN SHORE has been fortunate in securing a series of short stories from the pen of MISS NATALIE HAMMOND, of Lookout Hill, a young author, the quality of whose work grows with her years. Our friends of last season will recall with delight the "Impressions" from the same pen; showing a versatility of treatment, from the mystic, halftones of "The Unbelievable," to the sunny realism of "The Dory."

The second story of this new series will appear in the next issue of THE CAPE ANN SHORE.

Distinctive Groupings at the Hampton Shops
THE charm of a Hampton living-room lies not only in beauty of color and carving nor even in the discriminating arrangement of fine pieces of cabinet-work with their harmonious backgrounds, but also in the subtle details of lighting and those unusual incidentals which make each interior as delightfully livable as it is correctly distinctive.

MY LADY GOES SHOPPING

Peggy Returns To Cape Ann

Even I, hardened, (or softened) as I am to Peggy's down-side-up-nesses, thought that, after staying engaged to the same man for 8 months and twenty-two days in succession, it would be the real thing! And with Phil such a darling, and all the initials marked on everything—it did seem just too restless of Peggy—just too restless for words!

When Peggy called off the wedding—2 weeks before the date engraved on the invitations—conversation was plentiful.

Peggy's Aunt Lida blames it all somehow on Bolshevism, but thinks perhaps it was just as well because of the weather: "June had so many rainy days this year, and rainy days may be good enough for people who like to get their feet wet on long walks over the Bass Rocks moors without rubbers—but not so good for a June garden wedding in bowers of roses, which are unpleasant when damp."

Peggy's Brother Jimmy says that it's because she had such a good time shopping at Magnolia last year and she wants the fun of buying some new trousseau thrillers—"because," he whispers with a confident grin, "You know, in a week or two, everything she has will be so horribly old fashioned that there won't be a stitch she can wear!"

Jimmy, though just a Harvard Freshman, has literary leanings, and is preparing a Series of Articles called "Peggy-sis Annex-dotes" which he claims have been accepted by THE CAPE ANN SHORE.

Peggy's Dad thinks it was all rather unexpected—"but then look at the Republican nomination!"

He thinks a lot of Phil, and had spent oodles of time and money on a darling old house in Gramercy Park which he was giving Peggy for a wedding present and which with the aid of the Hampton Shops he was changing into a 1920 model Aladdin's palace.

Still the old dear can't quite hide his relief at what he calls the "Demobilization of the Wedding Festivities."

Peggy's friends have so many explanations that as Jimmy says "it would take an ambidextrous efficiency expert to card index them."

As for Peggy and Phil, neither of them have offered a snitch of excuse to the gaping world! Peggy's Aunt Lida has taken one of the cottages belonging to the Moorlands Hotel and about a week ago Peggy arrived with 17 trunks, a French maid, a Russian wolf-hound and a smile that made up for all the trouble caused by the former items.

Phil disappeared for a while and it was rumored that he was fitting a seaplane to hunt sharks in the South Seas—or that he had become a stoker on his own yacht—or was taking wireless photographs of the Democratic Convention. But the other evening he turned up at the Bal Masque, given by The Gallery On The Moors, dressed in the togs of an aviator, which everybody thought was just a costume, until he lured Peggy into the moonlight and under cover of the music they "took off" in his raky little French Fly-about. We were all betting that this time it was an elopement but they only flew over to Del Monte's at Magnolia—had a little supper and got back in time for the last dance. Peggy's Aunt Lida was sure she'd catch a cold up in that drafty sky at night. Peggy didn't catch cold. She had her long soft cape of knitted wool, coral pink—with a fluffy white collar which was invented expressly for her by Farr and is the joy of her life and the constant companion of her adventures.

Peggy went to the masquerade as a "Cover Design For Vogue" and her costume, as usual, was the hit of the evening. She had it made by Harry Collins and it was Vogue to the finger tips:—A vivid foundation of astounding lines—finished with a hundred little touches still more astounding—the whole absurdly delicious!

Of course, all the men were full of gloom when Phil turned up in his best Here-Comes-The-Conquering-Cave-Man manner and looking like a bronze by Anna Hyatt; Chubby Chelton remarked that he wished everybody had been born 2,000 years ago and he'd show somebody something! I just told Chubby that he could be born as long ago as he pleased but I was glad that I personally wasn't born 2,000 years ago for just think how faded I'd be by this time and even a beauty specialist like Marie Earle—with all her magic toilet preparations—couldn't do much for one at that age.

This Space Reserved For Future Notice By Harry Collins 9 East 57th Street New York City and the Arcade, Magnolia

Well, ever since that night of the masquerade, Phil has resumed his role of the favored suitor—Peggy's portable background—just as if no wedding cancellations had ever come between them. She even takes him on her shopping whirls to Magnolia, and he patiently drinks orangeade upon orangeade at the Occanside while she is trying on a chapeau ravissante at Tyson's or a ducky little organdie frock at J. J. Jonas, or having one of those shampoos which the Frances Fox method knows how to make so soothing.

After about two hours, Phil usually turns up and announces that he belongs to a union and has struck for an eight-hour day with Peggy, and an "open shop" for himself. So they lunch at Edna Ferguson's Tea House and then explore the Arcade together. At Lamson & Hubbard's Phil offers remarks about how those furs on Peggy make him shiver with ecstasy. Miss Farrell, the Manager, is highly amused but sympathetic, and often comes to his rescue when Peggy coldly invites him to withdraw.

Then there are Phil's own pet shops—like Dreicer. He says they have so many things that look well on Peggy and can be worn right off the bat without any trying and fitting—which is the great advantage in pearls over clothes. But now that they are officially disengaged, Peggy won't allow him to buy her any presents and is always returning some gift of value which from time to time he tries to send her.

Schmidt & Son is another favorite with Phil who is very keen on Dutch Silver, and Sheffield Ware. He knows a lot about hall marks, and has inherited a lot of interesting old pieces.

As for wedding presents, Phil has them down to a science. Every once in a while he drops in at Schmidt & Sons, selects a lot of things that take his fancy and has them put aside for him and numbered. He has his stationer keep Schmidt & Son supplied with his calling cards— and when any of his friends get engaged or married, he just wires Mr. Henry D. Schmidt to send Dutch tea service No. 3—or Sheffield tray No. 7—or Rose leaf box No. 9 with his card, to a certain address. Phil claims this scheme "hits the high spots of economy and efficiency—and saves waste and worry." He wants Peggy and me to adopt it entirely but just think of all the lovely things you wouldn't see if you always did your shopping by wire!

Take McCutcheon's, for instance, it's

MRS. Audella Hyatt, of Princeton, N. J., with her daughter, Mrs. Harriet Hyatt Mayor, and family, have returned to "Seven Acres" for the season. She has been joined by her daughter, Miss Anna Vaughn Hyatt, America's foremost woman sculptor, who has had an exceedingly busy season at her winter studio in New York. Mrs. Hyatt is among the longest in residence of any of the summer colony, coming here in the early 70's as a young woman with her husband, the late Prof. Alpheus Hyatt, the distinguished scientist.

Miss Anna Vaughn Hyatt and niece, Miss Catherine Mayor, went to Porto Bello-on-St.-Mary's, Md., in June to attend the wedding of her niece, Clara Hunter Hyatt and Lieut.-Commander Dana Anderson Hodgdon, U. S. N. R. F., who served in the navy during the war. The wedding was a quiet one, only the relatives and immediate friends being in attendance. Miss Catherine Mayor made a charming bridesmaid and the best man was the law partner of the groom, Mr. John Driscoe. The bride will be remembered by many of the North Shore summer colony for her beauty and vivaoity. The groom is related to the Carrolls and other old Maryland families. They will reside this summer at Dana-on-the-Potuxet.

Dr. Alfred G. Mayor, a scientist prominent in the activities of the Carnegie Foundation is at present in the Island of Pango Pango in the South Seas engaged in marine research which he has made his life work. He will be in attendance at a convention of scientists from all over the world at Honolulu in August where he will give a significant address.

COMMUNITY PLAY HOUSE

younger and one for older children.

The Cape Ann Players, drawing some of their talent from the School, will present a bill which promises to be more than usually successful. The plays to be given August 24, 25, 26 have not yet been chosen, but those for July 20, 21, 22 are Sutro's "The Marriage.....Will not take Place," "Overtones" and "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," in which a very novel departure will be made in the staging, the nature of which we are not permitted to disclose. The seats, all of which are reserved, are $2.00 each, and may be obtained thru Mrs. Leon Sturtevant, Community Dramatic School, East Gloucester. The school will also give a group of plays during the summer, at the studios.

EASTERN POINT

THE stone residence building for Miss Edith Notman, Brooklyn, on the site of the old Colonial Arms, is nearly completed. The disposition of recent home builders is to utilize the granite excavated for the foundation, this material being first used in the F. G. Hall Chateau, a little farther along.

The Notmans have used red tiling for roofing which relieves the rather somber and cold tones of the stone and heightens the picturesque effect. Something more than 1100 loads of sand were utilized in the construction of the grounds.

Arthur G. Leonard of Chicago, is also completing a fine home of the granite excavated on the premises. Construction was begun in the early Spring and the house may be ready for occupancy in the late Fall. The site is in the vicinity of Brace's Cove.

Col. John W. Prentice of New York, has planned a fine residence of the same material and will start building next Fall or the following Spring. The roadway controversy having been settled, virtually in favor of the Colonel, the path is clear to go ahead.

Nowhere along the Shore has there been a building boom in the past 15 years as in this locality. The estimated cost of the three houses before alluded to, is in the vicinity of $650,000 and it is said, that when conditions are more favorable, other equally extensive residences will come into existence.

Mrs. R. C. Rathbone of New York, is again occupying "The Hacienda," her summer home on Eastern Point road.

"The Ramparts," one of the show places of this section, was opened early by its owner, Mrs. S. A. Raymond of Cleveland.

The William Sheafe's of Boston are at their Eastern Point summer house.

Henry D. Sleeper, who was awarded the Legion of Honor for good work in the ambulance corps in France, has rented his summer home, "Beauport," for the season in order to return to France and complete his work.

The Stephen W. Sleepers of Boston came early to their house on Eastern Point road.

W. Jay Little and family of Boston, are established for the season at their Eastern Point residence.

Miss Mary E. Doyle of Detroit, has the Scott house in Tragabigzanda road.

New comers to Bass Rocks this year are the Arthur T. Saffords of Lowell. They have purchased the Gates house.

The family of J. H. Fitch of Newton Center, have the Chickering cottage for the season.

J. M. Crocker and family of Brookline, have the Hagstrom cottage on Mt. Pleasant avenue for another season.

C. R. Smith and family of Boston, are occupying their cottage on Beach road.

J. F. Fuller and family of Worcester, are occupying the Thomas cottage, Bass Rocks road.

Mrs. Arthur M. Parker of Detroit, opened her house on Souther road the first of the month.

The Winthrop Sargents of Philadelphia phia, took occupancy of their cottage, Atlantic road, early in the season.

Samuel H. Pillsbury and family of Boston, have a cottage on Grapevine road for the season.

Frederick Eaton of Lawrence, has sold his cottage on the Souther road, to E. T. Sayward of Brookline. The Eatons were among the last of the original cottage settlers here, a large number of whom came from Lawrence.

The Smith cottage, this year, is occupied by the family of C. T. Jeffery of Chicago.

Dr. William Jarvie and daughter Amelia, of Brooklyn, will not be here this season having gone to Europe. They made a short visit the first of June prior to their departure. Their cottage will this season be occupied by the Hiram H. Walkers of Detroit. The Jarvies will spend the summer in England and France, returning to Bass Rocks in October.

Col. M. E. Carthew-Yorstown, a retired British officer, and family, are occupying the Lester Roberts cottage, Haskell street, this season.

Allen Farmer and family of Brookline, came in June to their Decatur street cottage.

Mrs. Frank F. Brumback of Kansas City, is occupying her cottage on Haskell street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mills and Mrs. Mills' sister, Miss Georgianna Dodge, of Toledo, arrived early in June at their summer home "Under-the-Cliff" on Atlantic road. The family have been coming to Bass Rocks for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Howland Twombly of Boston, are returning for another season to "Heathercrest" which they have occupied for several seasons.

Mrs. N. H. Weeks and family of Manchester, N. H., are at their Eastern Point summer home.

Prof. M. W. Jacobus of Hartford, and family, are established at their cottage for the season.

Mrs. Waterman A. Taft and family, of Arlington, opened "Balmaha" in June.

Philip M. Tucker and family of Brookline, are again occupying their summer home, "The Outlook."

"Finisterre" is the appropriate name for the summer home of the John Clays of Chicago, situated at the tip of Eastern Point.

NAVY Y. M. C. A. FETE A SUCCESS

In spite of J. Pluvius, who has been working overtime of late, the Navy festival in aid of the Navy Y. M. C. A. at Charlestown, which was given at the Haven estate, at Beverly Farms by the members of the North Shore colony last Saturday was a success. On account of the rain it was necessary to call some of the sporting events off at 3 o'clock until Monday afternoon.

In the horse races three classes were run. The first event was children's hacks divided into three classes. In the first class Bounce, owned by Dr. H. D. Lambert, took the first ribbon, and Punch, owned by H. J. Coolidge, took second. In the medium class the first ribbon went to Buckley Queen, owned by Dr. H. D. Lambert, and the second to Golden Bantam, owned by Miss Janice Vaughan.

The large class was won by Minnie, owned by the Turner Hill Farms, and the second ribbon was taken by Checkers, owned by Herbert W. Mason. Others who had entries in this class were John S. Lawrence, Frederick Ayer, Miss Janice Liggett, Albert Beveridge, Miss Charlotte W. Taintor, George C. Vaughan, Jr., H. J. Coolidge, Helen Clark Hopewell, Miss Betty Moulton and H. W. Whitman.

The second event, the hack class, took place at 11.30 o'clock. In this, Radiant, owned by Miss Eleonora Sears, took first ribbon. Slumberer, owned by Frederick Bryan, took second ribbon. Among those having entries in this class were Miss Katharine S. Crosby, Frederick Ayer, John S. Lawrence, Mrs. George Burroughs, Turner Hill Farm, Miss Alice Thorndike, Mrs. Talbot C. Chase, Norman D. Vaughan, Miss Ellen Taintor, Mr. and Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, A. C. Burrage, Jr., and Dennis Upson.

The last class to be run off Saturday afternoon was the hunters' class, carrying 175 pounds, in which Metier, owned by Hiram T. Folsom, and Col. O'Bannon, owned by Dennis Upson, were tied for first ribbon. Those having entries in this class were N. W. Rice, Robert H. Reece, Frederick Ayer, John S. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, Turner Hill Farms, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., Miss Alice Thorndike, Alvin F. Sortwell, Miss Aileen Flannery, Miss Mary Curtis, Isaac R. Thomas, Frederick Bryan, J. H. Proctor and Miss Eleonora Sears.

The judges of the horse show were Walter D. Denegre, Dr. Henry L. Morse and Col. George S. Patton, Jr.

There was a band concert by the Navy Band of the Delaware and a drill by the bluejackets.

About the grounds were a number of booths on which fancy articles, soft drinks and refreshments were on sale.

The following North Shore residents were in charge of the booths:

Notions:—Mrs. Lawrence White, chairman; Mrs. James H. Lancashire, Mrs. Marshall Fabyan, Mrs. Samuel Vaughan, Mrs. Caleb Loring, Mrs. Alanson L. Daniels; dairy products:—Mrs. Isaac R. also the sort of firm where if you go once, you go always. Our family has dealt there ever since I can remember—and I adore beautiful linens, and am always running in just for the joy of seeing their things—yet every time I go I see something quite different and even more exquisite and I'd hate to miss that. Peggy's Aunt Lida says that a knowledge and feeling for linens is part of the liberal education of a gentlewoman.

Peggy's Aunt Lida is all for the Mail Order Method—especially Altman's and Daniel Low. She will send to Altman's for anything from pins to pianos. Says it is far less trouble in the end, and they always seem to know exactly what she wants. They ought to, for she has dealt with them for over 40 years. As for that, Peggy and I have the Altman habit too—for you can get things there when you can't get them anywhere else in the world, and they take the greatest trouble about even the least thing. Hardly a week goes by in the summer time but I send up for something for my cottage. They have the most charming porch rugs and summery things. But when in New York, I go there with my own eyes. It wouldn't be a trip to New York without a trip to Altman's!

With Daniel Low, it's just the same way, only reversed. Wherever I am in the winter, I send for his catalogue which is an illustrated magazine of gift suggestions and the most comfortable way to avoid the Christmas rush. But in the summer—with Cape Ann less than an hour's motor ride to Salem—the thing to do is to ride over and have the fun of making a personal call on the fine old Salem firm with its Minute-Men standards and up-to-the-minute methods.

Peggy and I agree on this as on everything else except the casual way in which she treats her beaux. But it doesn't seem to cramp their devotion and its their own fault if they can't train her, and anyhow why should I grumble because Peggy isn't honey mooning in Japan when it's lots more fun having her right here on Cape Ann?

NIP-AND-TUCK RACING

Osprey Carries Away Her Halyards in a Blow

The Annisquam Yacht Club sailed its first race of the season Sunday, the opening event scheduled for Saturday afternoon having been called off on account of the rain.

The conditions were a stiff westerly breeze and a lumpy sea, a splendid race resulting.

In the bird class, Sumner Andrew in the Osprey got the best of the getaway and was leading down the river until he carried away his halyards off the light house.

It took a half hour to repair damages when he again got underway and sailed the course.

Down the river the wind was a reach and to Plum Cove it was dead astern. Across to Essex it was a beat, with a run to the lighthouse and a beam reach to the finish.

The race throughout was a close tussle between Russell Smith and John Norton, but the Auk turned all the buoys first, hotly pressed by the Archaeopteryx.

The cat class sailed a hot race, too, with about four minutes separating the first and last boats. Skipper Don Jelly berthed his boat to windward, getting the best off the sendoff, with the bow of the Sea Mew almost overlapping the Catnip's stern continuously, the Catchup, Catspaw and Copycat being dangerous contenders at all stages. The summary:

BIRD CLASS

Name and owner	El time
Auk, R. Russell Smith	1:16:01
Archaeopteryx, John Norton	1:16:45
Tern, Jack Hooper	1:24:12

Catspaw, J. D. Simson	1:40:50
Copycat, Wesley Pear	1:41:30
Catenary, J. T. Norton	1:43:57

One of the best races that the younger element of the Annisquam Yacht Club has experienced was held Monday, the Fifth. A strong breeze blew from the northwest, obliging all but the Curlew to shorten canvas. The lee rails were awash the entire route.

In the bird class the Curlew had the advantage, the Osprey a poor second. The latter overhauled the Broiler shortly after the channel buoy was turned. It was a beat to Essex, run to Plum Cove and a beat and reach home with positions unchanged, the Curlew always pointing the way.

In the cats the Copycat was off in the lead at gunfire, the Catnip behind. When halfway to Essex, Capt. Jelly overtook the Copycat and went into the lead.

In the dog class, Douglass Guiler in the Bow Wow was the only one to face the music. The summary:

BIRD CLASS

DOG CLASS

Bow Wow, Douglass Guiler	2:13:20

Tige withdrew.

The afternoon race was sailed with the wind moderate from the northwest and much smoother sea than in the afternoon, a larger field awaiting the gun. In the bird class the Mavis and Tern were away first, but when the river mouth was passed and the fleet came about for Essex the Auk took the lead. The Auk, Mavis, Tern and Osprey went over to starboard under Wingaersheek Beach and gained, the others losing by going to port. The Auk turned first at the Essex buoy with the Tern second, Osprey and Mavis in order. At Plum Cove it was an in-and-out tussle for second position, but Don Simson in the Mavis worked the beach end and landed second honors.

In the cat class Morrill Wiggin in the Catspaw took the lead and was never headed, the Catchup being runner-up all Events postponed to Monday on account of the rain successfully completed the program for the evening. Clog that could be desired and the attendance was fully as large as on Saturday.

During the afternoon there was dancing under a large tent and at the right of the tent tea was served.

A cabaret, dancing and moving pictures made up the program for the evening, clog dancing by Miss Mary Sigourney, a monologue by Miss Helena Adamowski and songs by Mrs. Bayard Warren were features.

The first event was Class 5 for teams of two hunters, shown over a jump together. The first ribbon was won by Jocco and Jake, owned by the Turner Hill farm and ridden by Neil W. Rice and Frederick Amory. The second ribbon went to My Pal and Traveler, owned by F. Ayer and ridden by Mr. and Mrs. Ayer, Briarwood and Archer, owned by the Turner Hill farm and ridden by Neil Rice and Joseph Barron, took third ribbon.

In the hunters' class up to carrying 200 pounds, the first ribbon went to Bridget, owned by J. H. Proctor, and ridden by Miss Polly Proctor. Archer, owned by the Turner Hill Farm, and ridden by Joseph Barron, took second. Buckthorn of the Turner Hill Farm was fourth, this being his first defeat in five years. He slipped and lost his balance at the first jump.

The last event was that for championship hunters. Col. O'Bannon, owned by Dennis Upson, was first ribbon; Jocco, owned by Turner Hill Farm, took second. Buckthorn took third ribbon, and Briarwood, owned by Neil W. Rice was fourth.

CONSOLATION

H. Plympton beat N. R. Cutler.

Wilbur defaulted to Taylor. Wednesday play in the women's singles at the Bass Rocks Golf Club for the North Shore championship was resumed and the string was nearly cleaned up, leaving one game for Thursday between Mrs. Shurtleff and Miss Sigourney for the championship. The women's doubles championship began Thursday. The summary:

Miss Frances Brainard beat Miss A. Brainard, by default.

Miss Sigourney beat Mrs. Fallon, 6—0, 6—0.

Mrs. Billings beat Mrs. Farmer, 6—2, 5—7, 6—4.

Mrs. Shurtleff beat Mrs. Billings by default

Miss Sigourney beat Miss Frances Brainard, 6—1, 6—1

Sunday afternoon the players were entertained in the grill room of the Moorland with a luncheon and the same evening a dinner was given in their honor by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pope, whose summer home is near the golf links. Mr. Pope was a prime mover in arranging the tourney, which was highly successful from all standpoints.

ESSEX COUNTY GOLF

Record Entry List In Tournament on Manchester Links

Eleven years ago the largest entry for an open amateur tournament brought forth 203 participants. This was at the United States amateur championship at the Country Club, Brookline, where "Billy" Fownes of Pittsburg won the National title, defeating Warren Wood, then of Chicago, in the final match by 4 and 3.

Fred J. Wright, Jr., who won the Massachusetts junior championship twice, had the honor of leading the field with a wonderful score of 77. He was two strokes better than Francis Munroe of the United Shoe Club of Beverly. Munro topped Rodney Brown and H. P. W. Snelling of Concord by a stroke.

Wright, who played with Herbert Bond of the Winchester Country Club, was out in 39 and home in 38.

DANIEL LOW & COMPANY

Invites You to Historic Salem

OLD Salem with its stately houses, old fashioned gardens, and its wealth of other Colonial charms offers you a hearty welcome.

OUR Retail Store is located in Town House Square in the very heart of Salem, where once stood the Town Pump made famous by Hawthorne. Nearby are many of the points of historic interest.

WHETHER your stay on the North Shore is for a day, a week, or for all summer, we know you can spend part of your time pleasantly and profitably in our Store.

YOU will find it a place to delight your heart, with its spirit of hospitality and its wide variety of interesting and unusual wares—at the most unexpectedly moderate prices.

WE want you to consider this a personal invitation to visit our Store as often as you have the desire, and to make it your headquarters when shopping or sight-seeing in Salem. Come in and look around in a leisurely fashion; our clerks are expected to serve you, but not to disturb you in the least if you wish merely to look around or to meet a friend or wait for a car. Our Store is a Salem institution, dedicated to your service.
